NEW! Day 0 Sustainability Workshop

The Day 0 Sustainability Workshop made a powerful debut at Functional Fabric Fair New York, drawing a sold-out audience of over 130 industry professionals from across the supply chain. The workshop delivered engaging discussions on vital sustainability topics, including supply chain traceability and transparency, fostering alignment between internal teams and suppliers, tackling decarbonization challenges, and advancing textile-to-textile circularity. By uniting all facets of the industry, this dynamic event fostered consensus on crucial issues, encouraging collective action and inspiring collaboration toward a more sustainable future. The program also addressed emerging challenges, such as navigating evolving regulations and integrating innovative technologies, equipping attendees with tools to drive measurable progress. This gathering set a new benchmark for how industry leaders can collectively shape actionable, impactful strategies to meet sustainability goals.

Expert Talks Program

The Expert Talks program at Functional Fabric Fair New York delivered two days of accessible, on-stage education, captivating attendees with its focus on innovation, sustainability, and forward-thinking design. Highlights included exclusive insights from the Future Fabrics Expo, Nora Kühner's exploration of future-proof design strategies, and in-depth discussions on traceability and certifications. By convening leading experts and fostering open dialogue, the program inspired actionable solutions to address the textile industry's most pressing challenges, solidifying Functional Fabric Fair New York's role as a catalyst for meaningful progress and trend discovery.
